

Abstract

The present invention relates to an articulating paper for use in dentistry, which comprises a support layer that is provided on at least one side with at least one colour layer comprising a colouring pigment, wherein there is present, on at least one colour layer, a layer that has at least one adhesion promoter for the colouring pigment(s) of the colour layer(s).